In a world where time is a liquid that falls as rain upon the land, young Shanleya paddles her canoe out to the Tree Islands to learn the plant traditions of her people. Each island is home to a separate family of plants and an unforgettable Guardian with lessons to teach about the identification and uses of those plants. Shanleya’s Quest is a truly unique educational book that presents botanical concepts and plant identification skills in an easy and fun metaphorical format for children, as well as for adults who are young at heart.

2005. 32 pages.

"I own both Shanleya’s Quest and Botany in a Day and I can’t say enough great things about them. I teach mostly 3rd to 8th graders, and my goal is primarily to help my students establish a relationship with plants. Your materials are incredibly supportive of that, not to mention engaging, effective and fun."

"I believe I’m holding a new children’s classic, a book that will be treasured by children—and their parents—for years to come. This is a beautifully written story of a child’s quest for her own magical gifts and her place in the circle of ‘medicine women.’ Jesse Wolf Hardin has written a book that will inspire children to fully believe in themselves and to reach for their own unique dreams.“

Living Homes
Stone Masonry, Log, and Strawbale Construction
Building Your Super-Efficient Dream Home on a Shoe-String Budget
by Thomas J. Elpel

The house of your Dreams does not have to be expensive. The key is all in the planning. How much a house costs, how it looks, how comfortable it is, how energy-efficient it is—all these things occur on paper before you pick up even one tool. A little extra time in the planning process can save you tens of thousands of dollars in construction and maintenance. That is time well spent!

Living Homes takes you through the planning process to design an energy- and resource-efficient home that won’t break the bank. This book guides you through the nuts and bolts of construction from the footings to the roof. You will learn how to do slipform stone masonry, log home construction, building with strawbales, making your own “terra tile” floors, concrete countertops, windows and doors, solar water heaters, masonry fireplaces, framing, plumbing, greywater, septic systems, swamp filters, painting and more!

Slipform Stone Masonry DVD
With Builder and Author Thomas J. Elpel

Slipform Stone Masonry brings to life the nuts-and-bolts of the slipforming process featured in Thomas J. Elpel’s book Living Homes. In this unique video, Thomas J. Elpel and Robert Taylor build an insulated workshop of stone, demonstrating the building process from site excavation right through to putting the roof on and finishing the inside. This video is intended as a companion to Living Homes. Principles of design and construction are outlined in the book, enabling the reader to create dwellings customized to their own unique situations. In this video you will see just one application of those principles, but in vivid detail from start to finish. DVD. ISBN: 1-892784-17-3. 2001. 1 hr. 50 min. $25.

Build Your Own Masonry Fireplace DVD
With Builder and Author Thomas J. Elpel

Build an authentic masonry fireplace with the efficiency of a masonry stove! The baffle system in this fireplace extracts heat from the exhaust, warming up the thermal mass of brick and rock. The masonry fireplace can radiate heat for three days after the fire is out!

In this instructional video, Thomas J. Elpel demonstrates the step-by-step process of building a masonry fireplace, starting from the foundation and ending with the chimney. DVD. 2012. ISBN: 978-1-892784-34-6. 108 minutes. $25.

Looking for a satisfying and prosperous life experience?

Roadmap to Reality
Consciousness, Worldviews and the Blossoming of Human Spirit
by Thomas J. Elpel
Illustrated by Bonnie Andrich

What if our entire experience of reality were based on an assumption that could be proven false? In Roadmap to Reality, Thomas J. Elpel tests the assumption that we are a sentient (self-aware) species, and finds evidence suggesting otherwise. Like automatons, we copy beliefs and behaviors from generation to generation without consciously evaluating why we do what we do. We absorb a definition of reality and act on it, without ever questioning the source of that definition. In short, we don’t act; we react.

Roadmap to Reality is the quest to unravel the illusions to find out what reality really is. The journey follows links between technology and thought, showing that hunter-gatherer, agricultural, industrial, and informational societies define reality in predictable ways. In essence, production technology dictates perceptions of cause and effect, how we solve problems, and our approach to parenting and governing. Roadmap to Reality sequentially follows simple logic and common information to reveal that consciousness and worldviews evolve in layers over time.

With a casual writing style, the quest takes the reader to the ends of the universe and back, peeling away layers of consciousness to discover the reality beyond. This book will change your perspective of history and world events, and it will change you. Roadmap to Reality enables you to let go of preconceived notions about the nature of reality to discover a more holistic, more satisfying life experience. 260 pages. Lavishly illustrated. May 2008. ISBN: 978-1-892784-29-2. Printed on 100% recycled paper. $30.

Green Prosperity
Quit Your Job, Live Your Dreams

Little actual work is required to provide for most human needs such as shelter, clothing, warmth, food, and water, and even new necessities, such as mobile phones and transportation.

However, surplus time and idle hands represent a fundamental threat to society. The mechanism of control, subconsciously implemented throughout history, is to occupy people with meaningless work. Due to population growth and technological development, unnecessary work now consumes our resource base at an unsustainable rate and threatens all life on earth.

Participating in Nature
Wilderness Survival and Primitive Living Skills
by Thomas J. Elpel

Get in touch with your wild side! Primitive living is a way of learning about nature by participating in it. Instead of merely camping in the wilderness or passing through it, you become part of the process. Learn about nature by using it to meet your needs for shelter, fire, water, and food. Set aside the trappings of modern culture and step directly into nature with little or nothing, to experience nature on its own terms.

This book is the source for in-depth coverage of primitive shelters, butchering road kill deer, making braintan buckskin, tire sandals, bedroll packs and pack frames, felting with wool, quick bows and bone arrowheads, sinews, hide glue, wild edible plants, cooking methods, fishing by hand, water purification, primitive pottery, wooden containers, hollow log drums, basketry, cordage, twig deer, stalking skills, simple knives, flint & steel, bowdrill and handdrill fire-starting, and much more.

Looking to improve your competence and confidence in the outdoors?

The Art of Nothing
Wilderness Survival Video Series on DVD with Thomas J. Elpel and special guests

There is a big difference between learning wilderness skills in a classroom setting, versus applying them in the real world. In the Art of Nothing Wilderness Survival Video Series, Thomas J. Elpel and special guests journey into the woods and demonstrate all the skills they need to survive, including: making knives and tools; shelter construction to stay warm without blankets or sleeping bags; primitive fire starting; water purification; plus harvesting and cooking wild plant and animal foods.

Also included in the videos are wild mushrooms, wilderness cooking techniques, unique tools, great scenery and wildlife footage.

Each video documents completely different skills to meet the same basic needs for shelter, fire, water, and food, as well as wilderness philosophy and conservation.

Classroom in the Woods DVD
Primitive Skills for Public Schools
With Thomas J. Elpel and the Harrison School

Amid growing awareness of the need to reconnect kids with nature, Classroom in the Woods vividly demonstrates the power and promise of hands-on, immersive experiences to put kids in touch with the real world. In this enlightening video, Thomas J. Elpel brings a class of junior high students out into the woods for three days and two nights of hands-on wilderness survival and primitive skills experience.

Leaving textbooks behind, the kids revel at the opportunity for hands-on learning, as they build a shelter, forage for wild edible plants, make a bow and drill fire set, stalk and observe wildlife, and bake bread in a stone oven. The students create fire from wood, and then use that fire to shape bowls and spoons and cook their food. In the process, they learn about themselves building self-confidence, problem-solving skills, teamwork, and attunement to their surroundings.

More than just survival skills, these experiences give kids a better grasp of the world around them. Pursuing similar goals as author Richard Louv in Last Child in the Woods, Elpel provides a model demonstration of the kind of whole-person education that every kid should be entitled to. Run time: 50 minutes, plus 30 minutes of bonus features expanding on specific skills. ISBN: 978-1-892784-33-9. 2010. $25.
